Holly and Ivy, box and bay

Put in the church on Christmas day. But the customs of those times were rigid regarding the removal of all decorations from churches and dwellings before Candlemas day, Feb. 2, for people had superstitions about their remaining longer. Herrick alludes to this popular prejudice in the lines:

Down with the rosemary, and so Down with the baies and the mistletoe, Down with the holly, ivie, all Wherewith ye drest the Christmas hall,

That so the superstitious find No one least branch there left behind. For look how many leaves there be Neglected there. Maids, trust to me, So many goblins you will see. Perhaps the superstition was a pre-ext of the particular old housewives who knew that by Candlemas day the risped green things, dried by Yule ogs and many torchlights for illumination, would be nuisances of falling leaves and berries to tread underfoot. However this may be, the belief ob-

How Toy Fairies Make Christmas Gifts

OME; hurry up, my dears. Our friend St. Nicholas will soon he here to look over our latest Christmas toys. And you know what a busy man he is, never having a moment to spare this time

So spoke the queen of cloud fairles to her many subjects.

Now, maybe you children do not the wild fowl on the mere, and a know that these cloud fairles live up voice within cried; "Listen! Christ- at the north pole in the clouds that are always full of snow. But always having fived there they never feel the A GAIN at Christmas did we weave the holly round the Christmas on the great icebergs, to which they come down in sleighs drawn by reinearth and calmly fell on Christmas deer. Cloud fairles, so it is said, make all the Christmas gifts Santa Claus gives to the little ones each Christmas

> The season had been a busy one for the cloud fairies, for they had done their best to make up games and design toys that they might have many nice new ones for Santa Claus. He was to visit them any minute, the reason the queen had for begging her BUSINESS DIRECTORY. subjects to hurry with the work in band.

"Yes, dear queen," answered a girl fairy, dancing on the silver edge of a cloud; "I have all the dolls on the south end of the rainbow, where his greatness St. Nicholas of All Lands may view them without a moment's delay."

"And I have all the drums, bugles. herns, fifes and other musical toys placed to great advantage on the north end of the rainbow," said a gay fairy, flapping his wings as he sat on the point of a stray starlet that had got tangled in the clouds.

Just as the fairies ceased speaking there came through the frosty air the sound of sleighbells and the tooting of a bugle

"Ah, there he is now!" cried the queen. "Let's all go to greet him." In rushed four beautiful reindeer drawing a sleigh in which was seated

Then he gathered a dozen or more fairles in his arm and hugged them as a great bear would hug its cubs. He laughed so loudly and so merrily that the icebergs began to melt.

"Now," he cried joyously, "show me what you have made for my bosts of earth children. You know this time of year brings me millions of letters and I must hurry to my postoffice and run through my mail." After looking at the Christmas toys Santa Claus said he was more than pleased. Then, giving his order for 10,000 bags full of the beautiful things. he told the queen that he must go.

"But before I go," he said, "I must beg you to be prompt in filling my order. There can be no delay on Christmas, you know, my dear queen. That would mean to break the heart of some of my little ones, and that would never, never do. So farewell till earth's sundown on Christmas eve. I'll be bere myself to get my toys." After kissing again the queen's hand the jolly old saint sprang into his sleigh. blew his bugle and was away on a breeze. As two fairies stood watching him one said to the other, "For one reason only

TO THE NORTHERN would I be an earth child."

"And what is that reason, pray?" asked the fairy.

"That I might be in one of those bouses on the earth and see old Santa Claus come down one of those chimneys with his pack on his back and then to watch him fill the family stockings with toys and bonbons. I'm sure it would be quite a treat."

"Oh, but it happens only once i year," replied the other fairy. "You'd get good and lonesome during the long waits between two Christmases, I'm thinking. But, come; let's fly over and play in the northern lights. They are very bright tonight."

"Don't be gone long," called the queen after them. "for you know there are 10,000 bags of toys to make for the earth children's Christmas day."
